CFC surpasses goal of $400,000 for 2006

By BOB KREKORIAN
NAVSTA Public Affairs Staff

Naval Station (NAVSTA) Newport's active duty military and Department of Defense personnel, and NAVSTA tenant commands, exceeded the $400,000 goal set for the 2006 Combined Federal Campaign (CFC) which ended last Nov. 30.

Approximately $406,513 in pledges and contributions — an 8 percent increase over the 2005 fund drive totals — was donated during the campaign that kicked off Sept. 28.

"We were successful because we were able to expand the pool of people that contributed and get those who did contribute more energized," said Lt. Cmdr. Timothy May, NAVSTA CFC Steering Committee chairman.

Last year the CFC campaign in Newport raised $375,820.

May said organizations with higher numbers of employees tended to show increases in donations during the 2006 fund drive.

Preliminary pledge results showed the following top six contributing organizations:

Naval Undersea Warfare Center Division, Newport, with 2,700 employees, raised $214,945, a 10 percent increase.

Naval Warfare Development Command, 183 employees, $16,833, 9 percent increase.

NAVSTA Newport, 670 employees, $13,135, 40 percent increase.

Naval Health Care New England/Naval Ambulatory Care Center, 400 employees, $13,060, 10 percent increase.

Naval Justice School, 42

employees, $6,085, 22 percent increase.

Naval Academy Preparatory School, 100 employees, $4,552, 69 percent increase.

"One of the keys to success is always the motivation and dedication of key persons," May said. He recognized the special efforts of Navy Exchange employees Jessica Lohrke and Katemarie Trombley-Robinson; Religious Program Specialist 1st Class Michael Hawthorne, Naval Chaplains School; Lt. j.g. Angela Zimmerman, Naval Health Clinic New England; and Culinary Specialist 1st Class (SW) Jeremy Colton, Combined Bachelor Housing.

The active campaign ended Jan. 15, but pledges and contributions can still be made,

Courage fuels dreams of life

NEW YORK — Walking through Bronx Park several years ago on a beautiful autumn day, I noticed a small drama unfolding in nature that still inspires me. A little squirrel was standing on the branch of a tall tree, trying to summon the courage to jump onto a neighboring tree where several of his friends were scampering about.

The squirrel ran towards the trunk to climb down the tree defeated . . . or so I thought. Instead, the squirrel turned around, raced toward the tip of the branch and took a spectacular flying-leap off the tree, smack onto a branch of the neighboring tree and into the waiting arms (paws?) of his furry friends!

It points out an ironic reality: the greatest obstacles we often-times face are the ones that are self-imposed. Self-doubt and fears which paralyze us from moving ahead are not always the result of forces that come from without-but from within our own gut.

The little voice inside that whispers, "I don't have what it takes," is a powerful, tempestuous and universal human reality with which we all must contend.

No wonder so many people grow comfortable living life in a kind of no-man's-land between their self-imposed limitations on one hand, and not wanting to risk what it takes to vindicate their dreams, on the other hand. They do not expect to get the golden ring, but are content to find an acceptable,

NHCNE Dental spreads word to children about oral hygiene

EDITORS' NOTE: February is National Children's Dental Health Month. This is the first of four articles this month from Naval Health Clinic New England Newport, Dental.

The American Dental Association held the first national observance of Children's Dental Health Day on Feb. 8, 1949. This single day observance became a week-long event in 1955. In 1981, the program was extended to a month-long celebration, known today as National Children's Dental Health Month (NCDHM).

Since 1941, the observance has grown from a two-city event into a nationwide program. NCDHM messages reach millions of people in communities across the country and at numerous armed service bases abroad. Local observances often include poster, coloring, and essay contests, health fairs, free dental screenings, museum exhibits, classroom presentations and dental office tours.

Last year Naval Health Care (now Clinic) New England Newport, Dental, visited seven schools including the Child Development Center teaching over 800 preschoolers and elementary school pupils about proper brushing, flossing and diet by introducing activities, skits, dances, videos and games.

"It has always been a great success," said Lt. Sepehr Rajaei. "This year we are visiting schools in the Newport area to share again about the importance of brushing and flossing."

Lt. Rajaei is facilitating Children's Dental Health Month for the Newport area. He can be reached at the Dental Clinic at 841-2541/2.

For more information call Hospital Corpsman 1st Class William Kay at the Naval War College Dental Annex at 841-4305.

Navy soliciting CWOs as pilots

By NC1(SW) D. RANDLE
NAVSTA Career Counselor

Want to fly?

The Navy has announced the requirements and solicits applications from highly-qualified and hard-charging Sailors (E-5 through E-7) for a pilot program to place chief warrant officers (CWO) in cockpits as pilots and naval flight officers (NFO).

This pilot program will harness the strengths of Sailors today and shape the Navy of tomorrow by creating flying specialists unencumbered by the traditional career paths of the unrestricted line (URL) community.

As such, flying CWOs will rotate between traditional sea/shore flying billets. The flying CWO pilot program will consist of 30 personnel who will be commissioned as CWO2 prior to LDO/CWO indoctrination and then undergo flight training.

Ten pilots and four NFOs were selected by the July 06 board; the upcoming 2007 board will select the remaining 10 pilots and six NFOs. Once flight school is completed, the newly winged aviators will receive fleet replacement squadron (FRS) training and then report to the fleet.

Targeted communities are VP, VQ (P), VQ (T), HSC and HSL. For more information, contact your Command Career Counselor.

Culinary Specialist 1st Class (SW) Jeremy G. Colton, leading petty officer at Combined Bachelor Housing, Naval Station Newport, was one of five finalists for Mid-Atlantic (MIDLANT) Region Sailor of the Year 2006. He was recognized at an awards banquet last week hosted by Commanding Officer, Naval Air Station Willow Grove, Pa., and sponsored by the Navy League of Philadelphia and the Navy Federal Credit Union. The MIDLANT Region board convened on Jan. 23 at Willow Grove to review all 17 nominees within the region. After the review, the top five nominees were selected to appear in front of the board on Jan. 24. "We mustered together for a nominee/board member "meet and greet," Colton said. # German u-boat once paid visit

By RICHARD ALEXANDER
Navalog editor

Some recent gifts to the Naval War College Museum, coupled with a model of a German u-boat, illustrate how the World War I in Europe touched the shores of the Ocean State in 1916.

Modeler Stan Pienkowski created a scale replica of U53, the German submarine that made a surprise appearance in Narragansett Bay in October 1916. Other friends of the museum donated World War I German pocket watches, flags, binoculars and sextants.

Text in the exhibit explains that while WWI raged in Europe, the United States remained neutral and believed the great expanse of the Atlantic Ocean was a protective barrier.

But the appearance of the submarine was a carefully planned German strategic operation that was designed to prove that an entirely new dimension of war, with unrestricted submarine warfare, was about to open in the western Atlantic.

U53 was first spotted off Point Judith, and was escorted to mooring southwest of the Naval War College. The president of college and Commandant of the First Naval District, MUSUEM, Page 9

Rear Adm. Austin Knight, dispatched his lieutenant in a launch to investigate. He brought the captain of the u-boat, Kapitanleutnant Hans Rose, ashore to make a courtesy call on Adm. Knight. Late that afternoon the submarine got underway, with its German crew manning the rails and saluting the destroyer tender USS Melville at anchorage. The next day in international waters, the u-boat sank five non-neutral merchant ships totaling 20,388 tons in the course of 17 hours. In a not too subtle warning it demonstrated to the United States, that would soon enter the war, that Germany was quite capable of hitting U.S. merchant shipping along the East Coast. The exhibit also includes the charted courses taken across the Atlantic from Europe to the United States by German submarines. The remainder of the exhibit on the first floor includes: — Two mid-19th century sextants made in England by Spencer and Co. of London. They were donated by Mrs. Deborah A. Rosa of Saugerties, N.Y. —A Bible, a pocket watch, a German admiral inspector's flag and binoculars donated by Peter Schlie of Lake Worth, Fla. The items belonged to Schlie's grandfather, Coxswain Harry Schlie (1878-1916), a crewman on the German light cruiser SMS Hamburg who was killed in the Battle of Jutland — German Grand Admiral's flag, donated by Charles Noble of Marian, Mass. Standing watch over the exhibit is a butternut or white walnut wood carving of the bust of Adm. Raymond Spruance, a Naval War College president, by retired Master Chief Larry Nowell. Anyone who wishes to see the exhibit, and lacks the required ID cards, may call the museum and get on an access list at Gate 1. Call 841-4052.

But, there are those who want more, those who really believe that to live means to dare enough to chase their dreams. While they have human fears like everyone else, somehow they learned to neutralize that fear and self-doubt through faith and hardheaded determination. This is something to think about as we recently celebrated the life of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. and will soon celebrate the lives of Presidents George Washington and Abraham Lincoln. Upon the shoulders of people such as these goes much of the credit for mankind’s climb out of the caves up to the stars.

“The Newport branch demonstrated the team’s personal commitment and resolve to further enhance Navy Federal’s reputation for providing extraordinary service to Department of the Navy personnel and their families.”

The other winners were Pearl Harbor, Dam Neck and the Meridian branch offices. Each office excelled at providing superior member service, regardless of the task.

Member comments throughout the year validated service excellence with complimentary comments of “outstanding” or “excellent” in every service category.

The names of the recipients will be engraved on the permanent plaque at headquarters, and a replica of the plaque will be presented to each winner for permanent display in their office.

All present team members who worked in the winning branches during the year also will be recognized.
